Groovy upgrade

This 1970s bach in Whangapoua has been given a new lease on life. Updated for the modern day, the four-bedroom holiday haven has lost none of its cool, calm and comfortable beach feel.

The overall aesthetic is fun and fresh. Contemporary interior spaces make every day that much more enjoyable. Solid American oak flooring was laid throughout, along with all-new double-glazed window joinery. The home also boasts a modern kitchen that can easily cater to hungry holidaymakers. Bathrooms have been brilliantly upgraded.

Extensive new timber decks make it easier to soak up the excellent scenery. Great indoor-outdoor flow aids alfresco living and entertaining. The addition of a new bridge-style walkway allows for easier access to the home.

Extensive work has gone into rectifying some serious structural issues. With new exterior cladding, this home is now dressed to impress. The works carried out will allow the family to enjoy their warm and comfortable Coromandel Peninsula holiday retreat for generations to come. ●
